The Platt and Fassett Centennial.

The Hon. THOMAS COLLIER PLATT was born in Oswego on July 15, 1833.
 The Hon. JACOB S. FASSETT was born in Elmira on Nov. 13, 1833.

There is something of more than ordinary interest in these two dates. In 1893 the Hon. THOMAS C. PLATT will be just sixty years old. In 1893 the Hon. JACOB S. FASSETT will be just forty years old. By a short and not difficult arithmetical process it is clearly shown that 1893 will be the centenary year of PLATT and FASSETT, considered jointly, as PLATT and FASSETT must be considered if considered at all.

The Hon. THOMAS C. PLATT's age in 1893..... 60
 The Hon. JACOB S. FASSETT's age in 1893..... 40

Apparently no person, either in this State or in Illinois, has observed the impressive coincidence here exhibited, or noted its significance.

The so-called World's Fair, which Chicago owes solely to the friendly, if not disinterested, efforts of Mr. PLATT and Mr. FASSETT, will be held in 1893, provided that the City of False Pretences can borrow or beg money enough from outside sources to start the wheels a-going. The original intention to commemorate in an appropriate manner the four-hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS, has been abandoned. That anniversary occurs in the year 1892. The change of date removes the proposed World's Fair from direct relation with the fame of COLUMBUS, or with the memory of the event which made the name of the eminent navigator immortal. The exhibition held in 1893 may be a great affair, but it will have no more to do with CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS and the discovery of the Western world in 1492 than with the invasion of Italy by CHARLES VIII. of France in 1494. The Columbian sentiment is eliminated.

But as we have proved above by the irrefutable logic of mathematical demonstration, the Chicago Fair of 1893 will commemorate the centennial of Chicago's allies and benefactors in its great buccino enterprise. Why should not Chicago fling to the winds the flimsy COLUMBUS sham together with the other false pretences she is now repudiating, and hold her Fair openly and squarely as a PLATT-FASSETT Centennial?

It may be objected that both of these gentlemen are citizens of New York, not of Illinois. True, but it is for Chicago, not for New York, that they have plotted, intrigued, and labored. It is Chicago, not New York, that owes them gratitude.

The Duty of Dr. Keeley.

Another correspondent writes to us today declaring that he has been cured of opomania by the bichloride treatment, and giving praise and glory to Dr. KEELEY as a benefactor of the race. A feeling of profound gratitude to the inventor of the remedy is displayed by Dr. KEELEY's patients generally, and many of them have written to us assailing the medical profession because it refuses to give him the honor which they claim is his due, and to his remedy the distinction which they believe it deserves as a great discovery in the healing art. The discoverer is also upheld in preserving the secret of his composition.

It is really a very so important and Dr. KEELEY has followed the unvarying rule and practice of the profession, he would receive it. His renown would be universal and his fame imperishable. Every physician and every medical society would assist in the celebration of his name and his remedy. When Dr. JENNER, the discoverer of vaccination, had demonstrated its efficacy by many years of experimenting, he published it at once for the benefit of humanity. He gave it to his profession as an obligation he owed to his guild and to suffering humanity. He did not keep it a secret, so that he might himself make all the money from his discovery. Of course, vaccination encountered skeptical opposition at first, but long before Dr. JENNER died, in 1823, his discovery was promulgated throughout the civilized world, and it was accepted at its true worth. Honors were conferred on him by many countries, the English Parliament voted him grants of $120,000, and after his death a statue was erected to his memory in London. If Dr. JENNER had kept his discovery a secret, in small-pox should be compelled to come to him to get vaccinated, he might have made more money, but he would not have received the honors and he would not deserve his fame as a benefactor of mankind. Vaccination would have been confined to the few who paid him for it, and the loss to the world would have been terrible.

Prof. KOCH might have kept secret the composition of his lymph for the cure of consumption, and, claiming that it was absolutely successful, he might have established an institution, he might have formed a Koch company to monopolize its use in the treatment of consumptives. Instead, he gave it to the medical profession, that it might be tested throughout the world. The result has been that the value of the remedy has been examined by every competent expert who so desired. It has not accomplished as much as was expected from it. Dr. KOCH was not after money, but was endeavoring to make a priceless contribution to the healing art, and if that proved less effective than he hoped, he was ready to stand by the consequences of the experiment.

Dr. KEELEY has followed the same way. He declares that he has a demonstrated cure for drunkenness, and claims that he can destroy the diseased appetite for stimulants absolutely and permanently in ninety-five cases out of a hundred, and yet he refuses to tell what it is, and organizes a company to supply the treatment as a business of which it has the monopoly. The drunkards must go to the company; if they wish to be healed, and it secures all the pecuniary profits. It alone provides the secret bichloride of gold mixture, and, according to one of our correspondents, it is investing a million dollars in the building of a great hotel and in the making of other improvements at Dwight in order to increase its revenue from the patients who are flocking thither. That is, Dr. KEELEY is not primarily a public benefactor, but a man of business, who is making a fortune for himself.

He is able to treat only an insignificant part of the drunkards. Only a very few of them, comparatively, are able to pay his fees. The immense mass of them can derive no benefit from his discovery. If discovery it be. He is either afraid to submit his remedy and his treatment to medical criticism and investigation or he is determined to get for himself all the money that can be made out of it.

It is for this reason that Dr. KEELEY and his remedy have no standing before the medical profession. His treatment can never receive scientific attention so long as it persists in his present course. His conduct is unprofessional. He recognizes no obligations to the healing art. He is a selfish money maker, and not a benefactor of the race entitled to praise and honorable renown. Our correspondents talk of the professional prejudice which keeps his remedy out of public hospitals; but it is not prejudice, it is judgment arrived at after years of experience. No such secret preparation can be introduced properly and justly into a public institution. Its composition must be known and the medical art must have demonstrated its operation and its efficacy. Otherwise it cannot have a place as a method of treatment deserving of respect.

If Dr. KEELEY's bold claims for his remedy are justified and the confidence of his patients in their permanent cure is well founded, it is his duty to mankind to give it to the world, trusting for his material reward to the renown which it will give him as a specialist in the treatment of the disease of drunkenness.

Humburg from End to End.

It is noticeable that the Republican cause in New York rests upon the party's success in representing the campaign on either side as something which it is not. The Republican canvass, shaped as it is by its directors, is a deceit in attack and defense.

An effort to remove the impression that Tammany stands for New York's deprivation of the World's Fair was absolutely necessary if the Republican forces would presume to hold the field at all. The first appeal offered in their candidate's behalf was that he and his friends were not responsible for the outrage. Yet the evidence is irresistible that the Fair was lost to New York through Republican treachery. The Chicago Inter-Ocean says so, and that is good enough authority.

Mr. FASSETT's attempt to make the opposition to his party appear something other than what it is in truth is equally clear and equally hopeless. He has undertaken to create the idea that the enemy in front of him is not the Democratic party. He is going about the country bubbling over with insinuation that the Democracy of the Empire State has retired from the gubernatorial contest, and that the only show of fight and the only possible profit of victory is that of Tammany Hall in this city.

As the most potent influence in the principal Democratic stronghold, Tammany Hall has always been abhorred by the up-country Republicans. Along with that feeling there has been, perhaps throughout the entire history of the State, a Democratic jealousy of the immense metropolitan organization. The FASSETT scheme is to stir Republican feeling throughout the State by calling it to unite against the most solid and powerful body of its foes, and to lull the Democratic enthusiasm by arguing that the country Democrats are not concerned in the contest.

It is needless to say that Mr. FASSETT's plan of campaign is as false on one side as on the other. The Republican party is responsible for robbing New York of the World's Fair, and the Democratic party is responsible for robbing Montauk Point to Niagara River, as fought against the Republicans. It is a party fight.

Chicago on the Greatest Social Event in the History of the Northwest.

There was a wedding in Minneapolis last week, and there was a poet from our esteemed contemporary, the Chicago Inter-Ocean, to warble an epithalamium. With only the sincerest admiration for the Flour City, we feel sure that no Minneapolisian genius polished the three-column jewel of poetic prose which glittered in our Chicago contemporary during the next day. We recognize in it the workmanship of the artist who, to cover the unimpressive and chaste upholstery of the Auditorium with bouquets of adjectives, and with a steer's horn from the Stock Yards blow a pean in celebration of the coming of the World's Fair to Cook county. The style is the man. But come to the wedding.

"Without indulging in hyperbole or grandiloquent phrases," chants the poet, "this wedding may be denominated the most important social event in the history of the Northwest." It was natural that Chicago should be on hand at the most important social event in the history of the Northwest, for the bridegroom and the bride are going to live or exist in the Buncle Metropolis. But hush. It is eight o'clock at "one of the oldest and most aristocratic churches in the city." A surprised crowd of boys issues from "the carpeted canopy," and the organ begins that blessed hymenal march from "Lohengrin." The Chicago poet could not have been more impressed if he had been going to be married himself.

"As the boyish forms in their snowy vestments passed up the aisle they sang with indescribable sweetness the noble music of the bridal chorus arranged for female voices. For many weeks the boys had been in constant practice for this imposing event, and they not only sang the music with precision and earnestness, but with the most touching appreciation of the spirit of the occasion. Not one of the young throng that packed the church to the very doors will ever forget this marvelous wedding of the century. In only such a social occasion as this could the spirit of the age be so fully and so fittingly expressed."

"Faithful and true we lead ye forth,
 Where love triumphant shall crown ye with joy;
 And ye shall be both from all earth's annoy."
 "Champion, victor, go thou before,
 Maid, light and glorious, go thou before.
 Myrtle's holy revel ye have forsaken,
 Tender delight for you must await;
 Fragrant odors enshrine ye in bliss,
 Splendor and state in joy ye dwell."

"If there were no other male in the grand opera but this one number, would it not suffice to preserve it? If there were no more music along the pathway of the wedded twin, would it not afford a lifetime of melody?"

altar while, with her husband to be, she said the most solemn words of a lifetime? In her hands she had a most unique prayer book—in fact, the most unique one probably ever carried by a bride. Most unique of the law is declaratory of a power rather than mandatory as to its exercise, and we are inclined to think that a passport might be refused even to a citizen under circumstances which in the judgment of the State Department and the President would be inadvisable. It is expedient to issue one. If this view is correct, no mandamus could be granted for the Supreme Court of the United States has held again and again that the judiciary cannot interfere either by mandamus or injunction with executive officers, such as the heads of departments, in the discharge of their official duties unless those duties are purely ministerial in character and involve no exercise of judgment or official discretion.

Probably the best way for WONG CHIN FOO to obtain an authoritative adjudication from the President, and to his citizenship would be to attempt to vote at an election for member of Congress.

Mr. FASSETT doesn't pan out as an orator, after all. In his speech at Ogdensburg he said: "The Republican party's mission began in the Revolution, and it will not end until the wedding reception which follows it." In other words, he wants to make the pious people of Ogdensburg believe that the Republican party belongs to the Salvation Army. Then he belated laughter by speaking of 128,000 acres of Republicans. Unfortunately, the Republican party is not a land which belongs to our friend GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN. Again he says, "You stand here in the north a northern light of New York State Republicanism, an overlying menace to the darkness of a southern land." This brilliant display brought color to the cheeks of the people here in Manhattan Island, the people are not afraid of the northern lights, for the simple reason that no fellow has as yet discovered what they are made of or what they amount to. He also tells us that "St. Lawrence lights" are the lights of the Republic, and across the State in the southwestern corner, Cataraugus and Chautauque, see the signal and light their fires in return and send back the illumination to the north, and like the Scotch lights, these are the signs of life, the call to action of the clan of Republicanism.

This is a question well worthy of consideration, for the time being we must consider subject much more important than the Chicago point of view, the value of the presents. The delightful way in which the poet treats this subject enhances our admiration of him. Some men might have shown the practical and vulgar spirit of the pawnbroker, but the poet merely dandles us with one splendid detail, tosses a few jewels at us, and then in one golden sentence sums up the value of the most important social event in the history of the Northwest:

"A word as to the presents. It would be impossible, indeed, to make a list of the gifts of the bride and her friends, but the gift of the father of the bride to her in her own name of $200,000, as is understood, is certainly worth mention. The groom's present to the bride, consisting of an immense pearl set round with diamonds, is also of great value. The bride's mother gave her a magnificent necklace pendant consisting of an immense pearl set round with diamonds, and a pair of earrings of equal value.
